To Whom It May Concern:

I am so pleased we hired NetGreen Consulting to help create our new store website. The internet is too big not to have a website working for you. After making many calls to multiple website designers, David Green responded to our call quickly & professionally. He visited us at the store & walked us through the details of how the new website could be designed & how easily it could be managed. The process of designing the site was quick, and David Green was always available for questions.

Now, I have a website of which I can be proud. I can easily keep my site updated for my existing customers & the new customers that are finding our store through our website. Even now, David is just a phone call away if I need help. It's hard to find that kind of service anymore.

Technology is always changing, computers can be confusing, & running a business is hard enough, so it's nice to find someone to help make it easy. I would always recommend NetGreen Consulting for any website needs.
